The story so far

- Googol employees have been leaving for startup companies and have not been heard from since. We strongly suspect Gazillion Corporation is behind all the companies to which they're leaving, but have no evidence. We suspect that the employees were lured in with the promise of lavish perks, but that they're now being held against their will.
- The Googol founders, Perry & Lergey, have also gone missing, presumably to the same fate.
- Every employee left behind a message (puzzle) before they disappeared.
- You need to help track down these employees.
- The Board knows only the Googol managers that report directly to it.

Puzzles and structure

- Solving each employee puzzle will reveal other puzzles adjacent to it in the org chart.
- The seven employees at the top of the org chart are managers. Solving each of their puzzles will reveal new puzzles left behind by their administrative assistants.
- Remember, each employee has left Googol to join a startup company. We don't know the identities of those companies yet, but we suspect that figuring out what to do with the AA puzzles will reveal an important secret.

Help

- The Board is here to help!
- Contact us by e-mail:
board@gooooogol.com. We'll reply within 15 minutes and often more quickly.
- Contact us if you need a nudge in figuring out what to do, if you want to confirm some hypothesis, or if you have any other questions.
- We expect that every team will contact the Board at some point in the game. Please don't wait until you're not having fun before you talk to us.
